MOVIE HIGHLIGHTS

The Glass Castle

As one of four children of an alcoholic father and free-spirited mother, Jeannette Walls learns to fend for herself and her siblings at a young age. Based on a memoir, the film explores how the children deal with living in poverty with their responsibility-averse parents, who inspire but inhibit them. Their father captures their imagination and teaches them to embrace life fearlessly when sober but is often destructive when he is not. Meanwhile, their mother shuns the idea of raising a family and is more interested in pursuing her dreams as an artist.

AUDIO HIGHLIGHTS

The album, Journey, by At Adau, a traditional music band from East Malaysia, is playing onboard this month. We catch up with them for a quick chat.

How would you describe your music?

Music that heals – that is how we describe our music. Applies not only to our music but to all! Because we believe that music has the power to heal people! We combine traditional musical instruments from Borneo and those from around the world with modern day instruments to come up with our music. Our style of music is partly traditional and partly contemporary. We officially describe our band as an “Experimental World Music Band”.

When and how was the band formed?

The band was formed in June 2014. “At Adau” comes from two different indigenous languages from Borneo. “At” means “root” in Bidayuh and “Adau” is the name of a special tree, from which the sambe (a string instrument) is made by the Kenyah people from the upper Baram region. Our band was formed randomly and it’s a surprise how far we have come! To be honest, most of us do not have any formal musical training. We barely even know how to read notes in scores! We have learnt everything by heart.

Who are some of your musical influences?

We enjoy listening to indigenous folk music from around the world. We believe that this kind of music reflects a sense of originality, uniqueness and authenticity. It’s rare for people to listen to this type of music, so we decided to go against mainstream. We get influenced by a number of genres too such as rock, folk, Latin, afro, alternative and other indigenous and dance music.

From where do you get inspiration for your music?

We get inspiration from everywhere! From taking nights out to remote villages or downtown just for a change of scene. We do believe perspective comes from different places and different humour. We also like to mix the musical styles and rhythms of the different parts of the world. We believe this will boost our creative process and enhance our listening sensitivities. Another way is by having a random jam while chilling out with friends.

What are you working on right now?

We are now working on our second album which will be released early next year. We have quite a number of gigs happening in Kuching and around Sarawak as well until the end of the year. We have also started on quite a number of songs for our third album. Stay tuned!

Any word of advice for your fans?

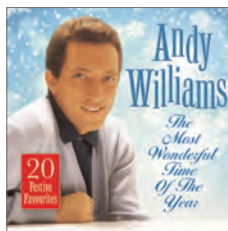

Be yourself. Be confident. Think out of the box. Don’t be scared to try new things. Being unique and different from others is beautiful. Love one another. Be generous, be truthful.

Elvis Presley - Christmas With Elvis and The Royal Philharmonic Orchestra

This compilation album brings together Elvis Presley’s best-loved yuletide performances from his previously released Christmas albums, re-imagined with sublime and exquisite new arrangements performed by The Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. Recorded at Abbey Roads Studio in London, the album includes Blue Christmas, Here Comes Santa Claus, Merry Christmas Baby, Silent Night and a bonus four gospel hymns from In the Valley EP. This is the third album of orchestral re-workings of tracks performed by Elvis, following 2016’s Wonder of You and 2015’s If I Can Dream.
