About cookies and similar technologies

We use cookies and similar technologies (together "cookies"). Cookies are small data files uploaded on your device when you visit any website or mobile app. Cookies allow a website or a mobile app to collect and store a range of data on your desktop computer, laptop or mobile device. Cookies help us to provide important features and functionality on our websites and mobile apps, and we use them to improve your customer experience.

We use Session Cookies which will automatically expire at the end of your browser session on our website and mobile apps. These are generally used for security purposes or to facilitate your use of our website or mobile apps. We use session cookies, to analyse the traffic on our website but also to remember your preference or the content of your online shopping basket.

We may also use Persistent Cookies which will be store for a longer period depending on the nature of their purpose. Persistent Cookies are used to remember your preferences and choices when you use our website or for targeted advertising purposes.

Essential Cookies

Essential cookies will be used as soon as you visit our website or mobile apps. We won't request your permission to use essential cookies as these cookies are strictly necessary to provide the services you requested and to enable core functionality of our website and mobile apps. Without these essential cookies, essential features and core functionalities of our website or mobile apps will be affected.

We use essential cookies for the following purposes: security, network management, accessibility, to help webpage to load quickly and, where relevant, for features such as online shopping basket. For example, essential cookies help us to keep track of what you are booking as you move through each stage of the booking process, and without them the online booking process cannot take place.

The following essential cookies are being placed on your device when accessing our webpage and/or mobile apps, and without them certain functional features would not be possible:

Name	Expiry Period	Description
